

Our philosophy & Methodology

In our efforts to achieve a more student-centered program, we emphasize the three "Rs" dear to us and strive to make our daily practices: relevant to our students, responsible for their safety and well-being, and responsive to their individual needs. Our student-teacher interaction can be one-on-one, in pair, or in small or large groups. Should student tardiness or truancy occurs, parents will be immediately contacted and we will be continuously in touch until all problems are resolved. Students in our program are encouraged to discover their talents and engage in activities that capture their interests and enhance their strengths
